Adventure Summary

Continuing a joint attack on the Wreck of the Returned launched by the Starfinder Society and their allies, you activated a magical device and entered the heart of the Wreck. Inside, you overcame disorienting obstacles, fighting against Elovai's will to physically manifest within the heart. Once there, you battled the heart's defenders, including cerebinites formed from Gremmik's memory echoes and Elovai's loyal facet guardians. You deactivated the psychic anchors binding Elovai's soul to the Wreck, then pushed forward to personally battle Elovai amid a psychic storm. After destroying Elovai, her hold over the Wreck's defenses and forces was shattered, leaving them unorganized. You escaped the Wreck, discovering that the Starfinders and their allies used this weakness to win their joint assault. While the Wreck of the Returned remains a dangerous location filled with a variety of defenses and enemies, today's victory has opened the Wreck for future exploration. In the aftermath, the Starfinder Society secured the Wreck's central core and accessed its data banks, confirming First Seeker Sarmak's fears: Elovai and the Wreck of the Returned were but the initial vanguard in a First Ones invasion and occupation of this reality. In response, Sarmak has vowed the Starfinder Society will uncover all they can about the First Ones and their plans, and will prepare this reality to stand firm against future First Ones incursions—the sake of this reality and all others that would come after it hangs in the balance!

Elovai collected this small metallic ball and paired glove from a long-destroyed reality, where it was created as a mode of transport.

You are teleported to the ball's location, arriving with the ball in your gloved hand. If this would bring another creature with you—even if you are carrying it in an extradimensional container—the teleportation effect fails.
